

2020 Professional Speaker BIO

(Below are three versions of Skip's speaker biography (250,150, and 75 words) to be used in marketing materials and on websites to promote your event. It is not to be used as the "speaker introduction" prior to Skip's presentation. You will be provided a custom "speaker introduction" based on the topic of Skip's program for your event)

250 Word BIO

Skip Weisman, a former professional baseball executive and a professional speaker, business coach and author, works with organizations to eliminate the entitlement mindset, taking employees beyond engagement to enthusiastic involvement to help companies succeed with a more positive, more productive, and more profitable workplace.

Skip's inspiring presentations include stories with practical, state-of-the-art tips, tools, and techniques, to transform mediocre workplaces into championship performance.

Skip served 5 baseball franchises as CEO starting at age 26, leading teams affiliated with the Boston Red Sox, Cincinnati Reds, New York Mets, Seattle Mariners, Tampa Bay Rays, and Texas Rangers.

Since 2012 Skip has delivered hundreds of keynote speeches to audiences as large as 1,500 at association conferences and corporate events across North America.

Some client's include; The Project Management Institute, Society for Human Resource Management, Pink Elephant IT Service Management, HDI, the Electronic Components Industry Association, University of Innovative Distribution, the Medical Group Management Association, Marist College, George Mason University, and Bayada Home Health Care.

In 2018 Skip published his first book Overcoming The 7 Deadliest Communication SINS: A New Standard for Workplace Communication, which is one of his signature talk topics, and in 2019 became a Great Game of Business Open Book Management Certified Coach.

Skip left baseball after the 2001 season and settled with his wife, Anne Saylor, and their cat, Lynx, in the City of Poughkeepsie, NY. Skip earned a B.S. Degree in Communication, and a Masters Degree in Sports Administration and Facility Management, from Ohio University.

150 Word BIO

Former professional baseball executive and professional speaker, business coach and author, Skip Weisman, works with organizations to eliminate the entitlement mindset, taking employees beyond engagement to enthusiastic involvement to help companies succeed with a more positive, more productive, and more profitable workplace.

Skip's inspiring presentations include personal stories offering practical lessons, state-of-the-art tips, tools, and techniques that transform mediocre workplaces into championship performers.

Skip served 5 baseball franchises as CEO starting at age 26 leading teams affiliated with the Boston Red Sox, Cincinnati Reds, New York Mets, Seattle Mariners, Tampa Bay Rays, and Texas Rangers.

Since 2012 Skip has been a keynote speaker and seminar presenter to audiences as large as 1,500 at corporate and association conferences across North America.

In 2018 Skip published his first book Overcoming The 7 Deadliest Communication SINS: A New Standard for Workplace Communication, and in 2019 became a Great Game of Business Open Book Management Certified Coach.

75 Word BIO

Former professional baseball executive and professional speaker, business coach and author, Skip Weisman, works with organizations to eliminate the entitlement mindset, taking employees beyond engagement to enthusiastic involvement to help companies succeed with a more positive, more productive, and more profitable workplace.

Skip was CEO for 5 baseball franchises over 16 years between 1986-2001. Since 2012 Skip has been a keynote speaker for audiences as large as 1,500 at corporate and association conferences across North America.